

Text of adult Camperdown Training Model

The largest snake in the world is the anaconda. Anacondas belong to the boa constrictor family and are found in the Amazon Jungle. They usually live near rivers or lakes as they like to lie in muddy waters. They are not aggressive and will usually disappear into the water when confronted.